RAIL TRAFFIC IS CURTAILED TODAY

UNLESS SHOPMEN RESPOND TO PRESIDENT'S APPEAL, STILL FURTHER TROUBLE IS SOON EXPECTED.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Curtailement of passenger service on many large roads of the country is believed by railroad officials to be a forecast in an announcement today of the discontinuance of service on New York, New Haven and Hartford, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Chicago and Northwestern roads. Further curtailment is predicted unless shopmen respond to President Wilson's appeal and return to work within a short time, pending a settlement of the wage demands. Freight traffic continued seriously hampered on all lines today.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS IN THE ALLEN FIELD

Saint Louis Oil Co. brought in No. 4 on Flavius Gilmore lease in the se sw of Section 14-5-8. This shows to be one of the best wells in the field, they had 18 feet of the richest sand yet found in the field and it is estimated to be 150 to 200 barrel well. Also these people are erecting a derrick for No. 5 on this same property.

Reserve Oil Co. are expecting to reach the Allen sand in No. 1 on sw of Section 7-5-9 with a twelve and one-half inch hole in good condition, these people expect to go to a depth of at least 1400 feet.

Homaokla Oil Co. No. 36—Harjo lease section 5-8 showed to be good pay sand in the Allen sand but they cased off same and are going down for a deep test.

K. C. Oil Co. brought in a good well in Section 23-5-8 on the Case lease which is No. 9.

Marjorie Oil Co. have spudded in on Rogers No. 1 Sec. 29-5-8 and expect to go at least 1600 feet deep in this well.

Homaokla Oil Co. are moving tools onto the Krebs lease in sw of Sec. 13-5-8 and will spud in No. 1 on this property within the next few days. This well will be watched with much interest as it opens up an extension east of the now proven field.

No Antipathy Expressed for Labor Unions, but a Strong Plea for Liberty in Business and the Right to Individual Bargaining.

For the past few days there seems to have been more or less curiosity and anxiety on the part of the labor unions of the city over an organization of business men recently perfected, and over a so-called "secret" agreement which has been circulated and signed by the business element.

For several days past there has been persistent rumor of a threatened sympathetic strike throughout the city, supposedly in sympathy with certain organizations that have failed to get the signatures of employers to a "closed shop" agreement, and it seems that the organization of business men, while not designed to combat the unions, was perfected more for self preservation than anything else.

In keeping with its usual keen instinct the News has been able to secure a copy of the agreement, or "round robin," which has been circulated, and we print it verbatim herewith. We might state that it has already been signed by every manufacturing and industrial institution in the city, by practically every business house and by the majority of the professional men who have been seen. The list is almost unanimous, and is expected to be made so within the next twenty-four hours we are told. The document reads:

An Agreement

"To organize an association in the city of Ada, composed of employers, independent working men and women and business and professional men and women of all kinds, for the purpose of mutual protection, for the right to bargain, either collectively or individually for labor, for the right to conduct our affairs in the way that seems to us to be for the best interests of ourselves and the city and community in general, without dictation from organizations of any kind whatsoever.

"We the undersigned employers, independent working men and women and business and professional men and women of the city of Ada, do by the signing of this instrument, agree to become members of an organization which will hereafter be known as the Citizens' Alliance of the City of Ada, and by attaching our signatures hereto do so become members, for purposes hereinbefore stated.

"We declare it to be our purpose to at all times stand for the best interests of the city industrially, socially, commercially and morally, and we believe that the time has come when it is our solemn duty, in the interest of self preservation, to organize ourselves against what appears to be an unwarranted assault upon the industrial interests of the community by organizations which seek to dictate to us in the matter of the employment of labor, and in many other matters which we feel are outside the prerogatives of those who seek to interfere.

"We realize that the prosperity of Ada is very largely dependent upon the prosperity of the laborers of the city and we are in favor of the most liberal wages.

"We are not opposed to labor unions, or their existence in the city, but we are opposed to the so-called 'closed shop', and we are not willing to have this community advertised to the world as such where the employer has no voice in the conduct of his business and where those who would use their best efforts in building up the city and community are at the mercy of irresponsible agitators who presume to dictate how we shall proceed with the development of our industries.

"We are glad that it has heretofore been the policy of our manufacturing interests to employ farmers, the sons of farmers and returned soldiers, whether they be members of labor unions or not, and we are heartily in favor of the continuance of that policy.

"We are opposed to any change in policy on the part of the business interests of the city that would encourage the institution of lawlessness to any degree whatsoever. We also demand the strict and impartial enforcement of all laws, and pledge ourselves to do everything within our power that may be necessary to secure the enforcement of law and the protection of all peaceful and law-abiding laborers.

"We are opposed to the policy of sympathetic strikes, as has been done in other places in times past, and pledge ourselves never to aid in any way the carrying out of such a policy, or permit one to be called or carried out if it is within our power to prevent it.

"We have no sympathy or respect for imported agitators whose only object is to encourage lawlessness by stirring up strife between employer and employee. We stand for the best understanding and co-operation between and among the citizens who have made this city, and we pledge ourselves to do everything in our power to preserve the good feeling that has always existed among our citizens.

"We determine, by entering this organization and signing this agreement, that the efforts heretofore put forth to make Ada a progressive city, and a decent place in which to live and raise our families, shall not have been put forth in vain, and we are equally determined that what we have built here shall not be destroyed by those who have nothing to lose and who have contributed nothing to its making.

"We heartily pledge ourselves to the principles above set forth, and for their enforcement we organize this alliance."

COUNTY ATTORNEYS IN SESSION AT O. C. TODAY

By the Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—County attorneys from all sections of the state began arriving in Oklahoma City last night to attend the meeting called for today by Governor Robertson for the purpose of discussing ways and means of prosecuting profiteers in foodstuffs. The meeting will be held in the assembly room of the house of representatives, beginning at 10 o'clock. Governor Robertson will preside.

At the same hour a meeting of Oklahoma City housewives will be held in the senate chamber for the purpose of perfecting plans for a statewide organization of housewives for the purpose of combating the present high cost of living.

"I have no particular plan of action to suggest," said the governor, who called the meeting of the county attorneys.

"We shall get together in the meeting, exchange views and then try to arrive at some plan by which we can do something."

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Forty additional passenger trains were cancelled today by Chicago railroads as a result of the strike of the federated railway shopmen.

597 PHONE KICKS SINCE JAN. FIRST

THE PUBLIC COMPLAINS OF THE POOR SERVICE OF THE SOUTHWESTERN BELL COMPANY.

By News' Special Service

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—Since Jan. 1, 597 complaints have been registered with the corporation commission by the public alleging poor service by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Failure to get central, failure to install phones, discourteous treatment, and shutting off local service while awaiting long distance calls, are among the complaints.

The Municipal Excavator Co. complained its wire was closed two hours while awaiting a long distance call at Tulsa.

Ada citizens say they waited two years for telephones to be installed although they lived within a few blocks of the telephone office.

An Oklahoma City company complained central would shut off local service though it had a special long distance phone and that once local service was withheld even while an official was talking over the long distance wire.

1,000 Are Converted And Reclaimed to Date In Ham-Ramsay Revival

At the morning service today at the tabernacle it was noted that approximately a thousand people had taken a stand for Christ since the co-operative revival started. The people interested expressed great joy at the success already had, and have the faith that still larger results will be secured. The service was opened in the midst of a gentle and refreshing shower. Coming to the platform Prof. Ramsay started singing just at ten "My Religion Don't Depend Upon the Weather," and the audience rang out lustily the chorus "Oh, Lord, let rain." There was a period devoted to thanksgiving and praise and many gave God thanks for abundant blessings. At the close of the sermon on "Dedication" many renounced sin and several accepted Christ as a personal Savior. The general conviction was that the morning meeting today was the best single service to date. The text was Romans 6:12, "Let not sin reign in your mortal bodies." The Evangelist, Rev. Ham, said:

"I want you church members to present yourselves to God for service from this time on. You are good, some of you, but good for nothing. Your dedication was perfect up to date when you were regenerated, but when you become enlightened you get a larger vision and with each gleam of new light comes a new and larger dedication. If you don't get as much out of your religion as somebody else does, it is certainly not God's fault. God makes ample provision for your religious joy, but you do not appropriate what God has provided. God's spirit would take full possession of us, if we would let him, but we grieve him by not acknowledging him. You fellowship God just the extent that you hate sin and judge sin. There is no such thing as an innocent sin. All God has for his children, or rather all that I am belongs to God.

"The word redemption has a double significance. One is included in the purchase of a slave for further sale and the other is the purchase of a slave off of the market. Our sanctification is our being purchased off of the market. I belong to Christ both by purchase and by gift but it is one matter to own a thing and another to be able to use that thing. I own a fountain pen, but I can't use it. God can't use lots of you slishy sloshy church members. He owns you and has a blood in (Continued on Page Eight.)

STOCKYARDS MEN ON STRIKE TODAY

RETURN OF FIVE THOUSAND NEGROES YESTERDAY SAID TO BE THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—A general strike of thirty-three thousand and eight hundred employees at the packing plants in the Union Stockyards began at 9 o'clock this morning. The action followed a decision of the yards' labor council, yesterday, to call a strike unless the state troops and police guards were immediately withdrawn from the plants. The strike was precipitated by the return to work of 5,000 negroes yesterday.

U. S. TO TAKE FIRM GRIP ON ANARCHY

REPRESENTATIVE BLANTON OF TEXAS INTRODUCES RESOLUTION TODAY THAT WILL STALL BOLSHEVIKI.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A joint resolution "declaring that a state of anarchy exists in the United States and authorizing the president to free interstate mails and traffic from further unlawful interference, and to adequately protect the citizens of the United States in their property rights," was introduced in congress today by Representative Blanton of Texas.

OKLAHOMA CITY FACES A SERIOUS SITUATION

By the Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 8. With 700 cars of peaches ready to be shipped and no cars and no ice in which to pack them; with wheat being piled on the ground in some places because elevators are already full and there are no cars to move the grain; with an ice famine that will be on in full force by Monday unless cooler weather comes immediately, and with high cost of living probe being attempted, local authorities have their hands full trying to find solutions for problems that are becoming more serious every hour.

AUTHORIZING A SWEEPING INVESTIGATION OF MEXICO

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Without opposition or debate, the senate today adopted a resolution authorizing the foreign relations committee to make a sweeping investigation of outrages against Americans and their property in Mexico and to report what, if any, means should be taken to prevent such outrages.

By the Associated Press

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Herbert C. Hoover is sick of his job.

Putting it bluntly but accurately, that is the dominating reason for the announced retirement to private life of the man who has come to be looked upon as the most successful individual feeder of the world's nations and who has saved many millions in all parts of the globe from sure starvation.

Mr. Hoover has just passed up an offer to become the world's coal controller, with virtually dictatorial powers. It has no lure for him, for he has been "through the mill"—the food mill—and he says that's enough for a lifetime.

"The time has come for Europe to run its own affairs," that sums up Mr. Hoover's opinion, at which he has arrived after two years of infinitely patient labors against gigantic odds. He has come to believe that to try to swim against certain currents which persist in sweeping away patient, unselfish efforts, is as useless as it is unwise.

Briefly, Mr. Hoover is thoroughly "fed up" on the present diplomatic situation, particularly the inability of the men around the green table to come to a definite understanding to lay at least the basis for an international "get together" on the tremendous economic issues of the day.

There is talk that he was in a mood to consider the coal controlling job, though for months bitterly dissatisfied with the way the diplomatic situation was being handled, but Rumania's action in resuming the path of force in the midst of virtual peace and seizing Budapest at an advantageous moment, with the apparent silent consent of France, filled his cup of disgust.

The retiring food chief is now convinced that the sooner all Americans get out of Europe the better for America.

MORE EMBARGO ORDERS ON EASTERN RAILROADS

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—An embargo on all freight on the New Haven and Central New England railroads was announced today because of the strike of shopmen.

By veto disapproving the Agricultural bill carrying repeal of the Daylight Saving law, President Wilson protested the action of Congress; and stated his opinion that repeal would involve a serious economic loss. The House refused to pass the bill over his veto.

Railway Traffic In This Section Badly Blocked by Strike at Main Points

By News' Special Service

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 7.—"The strike situation is rapidly becoming more serious. With freight shipments entirely suspended, we are doing all in our power to keep the passenger transportation normal," said Frank Gow, Frisco terminal superintendent, last night.

"On Thursday morning there will not be one switch engine left in running order. At present we have but two men available, a mechanical foreman and a car foreman. We are making every effort to keep up the passenger service and may be able to do so for several days yet, but it is only a question of time until passenger as well as freight transportation will be entirely crippled," Gow said.

According to Superintendent Gow, the situation at other points on the system is equally serious. At Sapulpa only one switch engine is in operation, and only two or three foremen are at work.

Only three men are at work at the Frisco roundhouse in West Tulsa, following the last walkout Tuesday afternoon. About 90 men are out on the strike there in addition to the 35 carmen. This includes laborers, as well as machinists, pipefitters, boilermakers, car repairmen, and helpers. Work at the West Tulsa shops is at a standstill, according to B. G. Gamble, general foreman of the Frisco shops.

"Although we have received no comment from higher officials of the road," said Mr. Gamble, "the system is entirely powerless to act. Only the federal government can relieve the situation. The strike is national in its scope and the demands are made of every system in the country, consequently it is a matter that will require settlement at Washington."

"Unless congress takes drastic measures to bring an end to the strike immediately, the result will be disastrous. We will do all we can to protect the passenger service, but it will only be a question of hours until it will be tied up as is the freight service."

According to information received at the local Frisco terminal, embargoes similar to the one put into effect here Tuesday at midnight have been issued at almost all points on the system, completely tying up all freight shipments. Not even perishable goods and livestock are being accepted for shipment.

Dispatches received from Galveston, Tex., report that Oklahoma and Texas shippers are flooding the office of the southern export committee there with telegrams requesting permits for grain shipments, particularly wheat. The Galveston office announced last night that there was no embargo on grain shipments except on barley originating in California.

Reports that no freight trains were operated out of Memphis yesterday were denied last night by officials of the general offices of the Frisco at Springfield, Mo. All freight moving south out of Memphis moved as usual, they said, and reasonably good service was rendered into Memphis on perishable and dead freight.

THE PROBERS SAY SHOE PRICES UNJUSTIFIED

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The present high price of shoes is entirely unjustified.

This is the finding of the federal trade commission, to be submitted to congress following an investigation of the activities of the packers, tanners, manufacturers and retailers during the period from 1914 to 1918, it was announced.

The report of the commission shows a succession of profiteering all down the line. The commission found, according to the report, that:

1—The larger packers control the hide supply and have taken excessive profits and have passed increased costs to subsequent steps in manufacture and distribution.

2—The tanner has taken exceptional profits.

3—The manufacturer has taken unusual margins.

4—The prices charged by the retailers are not justifiable, each factor in the industry having added to the burden he has to bear, just before passing it on to the next.

Other outstanding facts established by the inquiry, the report states, are as follows:

Prices Make Advance.

1—Between 1914 and 1917 the prices of hides, the principal factor in the cost of producing leather, greatly advanced and the differential between country hides and packer hides, increased beyond the usual proportion, due to the marked increase in the price of packer hides.

2—Though there was an increase in the cost of hides to the tanner, the prices of his product—leather advanced to a point that could not be justified by the cost of production. The conclusion is "supported by the high rates of return on investment received by tanners."

The cost of manufacturing shoes increased greatly between 1914 and 1917, but, as evidenced by the high rates of return on investment, "not to an extent that warranted the prices at which manufacturers sold their products."

MORE APPROPRIATION FOR REHABILITATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Recent legislation in congress has increased the appropriation for the vocational rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines to the sum of $14,000,000. This work is under the charge of the Federal Board for Vocational Education. The allowances made to the men during the period of training has also been changed. Instead of $65 a month a single man without dependents now receives $80, and a man with dependents, in place of the $75 he formerly received, is not paid $100 plus the sum allowed as family allowances.

It is interesting to note in connection with this appropriation of $14,000,000 made recently by congress for the re-establishment in civil life of disabled ex-service men, that Canada last year gave $32,368,000 for a similar restoration of injured members of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. More than two dollars for every one given by the United States is Canada's estimate of the need. Considering the difference in our populations and our resources our northern neighbor deserves our admiration.

Strikers May Be Guilty of Interference

By News' Special Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Federal investigation of the railroad shopmen's strike in the Chicago district to determine if leaders are subject to prosecution for interfering with government operated railroads is being made, according to Assistant District Attorney R. A. Mulroy. He said a number of witnesses already had been examined.

The district council which called the strike was formed in Chicago during the conference between the general director of the railroads and the officials of the union at Washington. It was the policy of the union officials to have the men remain at work pending an adjustment of the differences. The district council of railroad shopmen had no authority to call a strike, testimony shows.

"Responsible union men have complained to the government and we are conducting an investigation to determine who is responsible for this interference with government transportation and with operation of the railroads under federal administration."

MOONSHINER'S STILL NOW ON EXHIBITION

By News' Special Service

OKMULGEE, Aug. 8.—A complete whiskey still has been placed on exhibition in the court house and by Deputy Sheriff Jim Broadbent, following a raid by court officers on a "moonshine" plant 10 miles southwest of the city in which the still and several barrels of corn mash were captured. The operators of the still, who were just preparing to make a "run" of whiskey, however, escaped.

Few people outside of officers of the law and those who make moonshine whiskey, have any accurate idea of the appearance of a whiskey still. It is popularly supposed that a crude homemade affair, is a collection of more or less complicated apparatus. Such is not the case, as anyone who examines the one still on exhibition in the courthouse yard will learn. The still consists of an iron kettle with an air tight wooden cover and a wooden trough connected by a length of iron pipe. The iron pipe passes through the wooden trough which, when the still is in operation, is kept filled with cold water.

The "mash" is poured into the iron kettle, under which a fire is built, and the air tight cover fastened in place on the kettle. The "mash" boils and produces a vapor which passing through the iron pipe is condensed by the water in the trough and drips into a bucket as whisky at the end of the pipe.

Stone Appears Before House On Simms Bill

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Declaring that American democracy is "controlled by an autocracy in industry," Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, appeared before the house interstate and foreign commerce committee today to urge the passage of the Simms bill, embodying the Plumb plan for government ownership and "tripartite" control of the railroads.

"And America must become the home of industrial freedom," he added.

Stone told the committee that there could be no solution of the industrial problem and no lowering of the cost of living as long as consumers had to pay extortionate profits on their own earnings for the necessities of life.

Labor's belief in the Plumb plan was profound, Stone said.

"I speak as the voice of two million men," he declared, "delegated by them to announce to this committee and to the people of this country that they are supporting this measure with all the strength and all the unity of purpose that can move so large a body of citizens. Joined with us and represented by Mr. Morrison is the American Federation of Labor, adding three million and a half men to that body of railway employees who instituted this movement."

Indifference, Ignorance And Vice, Our Trouble

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—Results are showing from the campaign of the U. S. Public Health Service for the suppression of venereal diseases in Oklahoma," said Dr. J. C. Mahr, state director, viewing the reports received from 41 counties during July when a total of 697 cases were reported as against 1893 in June. "This is flattering, indeed, and where public health clinics are located for the treatment of these diseases the reports show many cases discharged as cured and a fewer number of new cases," stated Doctor Mahr, "and the work is showing for better social conditions and greater interest on the part of the public in the campaign against social diseases in this state."

Tulsa Has Most Cases. Tulsa county heads the list again the past month with 244 cases as against 1018 for June. Carter county reports 88 cases and Ottawa 52. Oklahoma county had 285 cases under treatment for July as compared with 397 for June; Choctaw 43, Rogers 24, Pottawatomie 22, Muskogee 25, Comanche 20, Canadian 14, Grady 17, Kingfisher 11, Lincoln 8, Pontotoc 8, Blaine 6, Kay 6, Nowata 13, Stephens 6 and the remaining counties reporting with five and less each.

Physicians in many counties are not reporting, an dare hereby violating the provisions of the state law. However, taking the state as a whole the work of stamping out and bringing under control venereal diseases is progressing satisfactorily.

Indifference and Ignorance. "Indifference" of parents, fathers and mothers, is involved in the prevalence of social diseases. Ignorance is the fundamental trouble with vice. Some parents share this ignorance, but many do not, and very few give their children proper instruction.

The Indian Woman

(By E. A. MacMillan.)

Indian life, customs and ideals have been the subject of discussion since the beginning of historic time. The popular mind has been filled with fallacies concerning him since the return of Columbus from his voyage of discovery of America, and even today when the aborigine has nearly run his race and his identity lost in the maelstrom of Anglo-Saxon civilization we still cling to those exploded fallacies, and refuse him truthful obituary recognition.

Women's sphere in the social life of the Indian has been misunderstood. Climatic conditions played a great part in her existence. Her home life among the Iroquois of the great Lakes was far different than was her life among the agricultural Choctaws of the south. The Siouxans of the plains, the Navahoes of the southwest and the Shoshones of the northwest varied but slightly in treatment of her. Often she has been pictured as a slave of her indolent lord, who was too often found idling away the hours—and the statement is, by no means, wholly untrue, but usually greatly overdrawn.

Among those who lived by hunting, fishing and trapping, all such work was done by men. The sacred religious ceremonies of the tribe: the planning of all expeditions of the chase or war; the making of all implements of the chase; the memorializing of tribal history, tribal legends and myths all fell to the male part of the tribe. To the women were assigned the cultivation of the soil; the making of clothing; the care of the children; the preparation of the skins secured in the chase. Not unusual was the preparation of the clothing a part of the duty of the men and when slaves were introduced among the southern Indians the labors of the women were greatly lightened.

Among many tribes the position of women was held in great reverence. Citizenship in the tribe was traced through her; the titles of the chieftainships of the tribe belonged to her; the lodge and its equipment was hers; her offspring belonged to her, not her husband, and even the tribal lands were hers. She was in fact the life of the tribe and possessing such power was consulted in all matters. When engaged in war the life of the prisoners captured were in her hands and she could cause their death in revenge for kindred killed.

Today among the Navahoes and Pueblos the greater part of the clothing, for the entire family, is made by the men.

In early time, when tribes were constantly at war with one another, and the pursuit of game carried them into disputed territory, the business of the man was to be a warrior and hunter. He was, therefore, ever on the alert for danger and but little of his time could be spent otherwise than in preparation for hunting and fighting. The women, therefore, assumed the burdens of the tribe cheerfully and no doubt would have scorned as effeminate any husband who would assume any duties that would lessen his prowess.

Among the Iroquois there were chieftainesses who ruled the women of the tribe and among their many duties were to guard the interest of the tribe in all its many activities.

A mother possessed the authority to forbid her sons going on the war-path and as a result the matter of war, and its untold miseries, lay almost wholly with the decision of the mothers of the tribe.

Most writers, who have studied carefully the racial traits of the Muskogean—which include the Choctaws, Chickasaws, Creeks and Seminoles—with a view to accuracy have stated that the oft repeated fallacy that women's sphere was far below that of the men was a myth. Bertram says, "I have been weeks and months, amongst them, and in their towns, and never observed the least sign of contention or wrangling; never saw an instance of an Indian beating his wife, or even reproving her in anger for indeed their wives merit their esteem and the most gentle treatment, their being industrious, frugal, careful, loving, and affectionate."

Pitiful Scenes as Health Officials Bring Fight Against Secret Drugs Into Open—Addicts Are Registered

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A long line of men and women stretched away for blocks before an unimposing looking door in Prince street a few days ago. Some of them were in rags, some were moderately well dressed, some were clerks and salaried people, and some wore furs and silks while their motors were waiting for them around the block.

There were some characteristics common to them all—the saffron tints of their skins, the dull lackluster of their eyes, the nervous twitching of the lips and nostrils, the hands that never remained still.

One by one they disappeared into the door. They emerged a short time later. Their heads were high, their shoulders thrown back, there was a light in their eyes, vim and energy marked their every movement as they hurried away, some to work, some to the park benches and the slums, and some to where their purring motors were waiting to carry them back to their comfortable homes.

In this drama staged in an uninviting street and hardly arresting the attention of the passerby, New York rung up the curtain on its fight to bring the drug habit into the open.

Hereafter, if the law is strictly carried out—and officials declare it will be—every person who uses narcotic drugs will be registered, photographed and regulated, regardless of his status, position or condition. It has as its purpose the gradual curing of every drug addict in the city.

The scene enacted in Prince street and duplicated at several other places throughout the city, was the registering of these addicts. Under the new law they must register. They are issued a card. This card they can take to their physician, who only by this card can issue them a prescription to be filled by a druggist. The druggist cannot supply narcotics to anyone who has not registered. The penalty is severe.

The card only lasts for two months. At the end of that time the user again submits himself to an examination by medical officials. If no progress has been made the same amount is allowed for the next two months. If there are indications that things are going better, that the grains can be cut down without physical suffering and mental unbalance, the card for the next two months calls for smaller injections.

In this manner New York hopes to gradually eradicate the drug field—by effecting cures.

Officials estimate that in Greater New York there are anywhere from 100,000 to 200,000 known drug users, persons who habitually take morphine, cocaine, heroin and other forms of drugs. There must be, they declare, other thousands who manage it so covertly that they have not been discovered.

Three thousand addicts registered at the Prince street house the first day. Officials declared this a small percentage. Just as soon as their present supply is exhausted and the invisible talons begin to clutch at their nerves and bodies, officials declare, the users will be driven to the registration places—or the river.

HOUSEWIVES NOW WANT PLACE IN THE CABINET

NEW YORK.—Housewives have the right to demand a place in the president's cabinet, according to Mrs. Julia Heath, president of the Housewives League, who believes that a food portfolio should be created to be presided over by a woman.

"Every class in the country," she said today, "is represented in the cabinet save the housewives. And the housewives are the ones who suffer most from high prices."

"Housewives will become Bolsheviks."

THE BOMB SUSPECT TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

By News' Special Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Charles McGuire, suspected of having knowledge of those responsible for the dynamiting of the home of Oscar Lawler last Sunday, and who was being questioned late last night by Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney in the latter's office, escaped from his guard, leaped from the eleventh floor of the hall of records to the pavement and was killed.

McGuire denied any knowledge of the affair but when Mr. Woolwine left his office for a moment, McGuire, it is said, attacked the detectives and leaped from the window.

McGuire, who was assistant chief engineer for the Los Angeles board of public utilities, was connected in litigation over a will recently in which Mr. Lawler represented the opposing faction and which was decided in favor of Mr. Lawler's clients.

Wilson Directs Prosecution of Packing Firm

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The government's new anti-trust suits against the five great meat packing concerns are being brought by direction of President Wilson, as one of the first results of his study of the cost of living problems.

It became known today that the president came to his decision after a careful study of the investigations of the federal trade commission and the hearings before congressional committees considering bills to control the packing industry. Conferences with members of the federal commission and Attorney General Palmer followed. The announcement by the attorney general that the suits should be brought was the immediate result.

No final decision has been reached as to whether the suits will be brought in the civil or criminal courts or in both. It seems likely the prosecution will proceed from both angles. The attorney general has already begun the preliminary work which will determine the form of the action and the general lines of the complaint before the courts.

THAT WAY.
THAT I stopped to watch him.
AND HE fell down.

AND I could see he could.
HARDLY KEEP from crying.
BUT HE didn't.
TILL HIS mother turned.
AND SAW what he had done.

AND LAMMED him on the ears.
IN A way I'd never seen before.
AND WHICH made me wonder.

er instruction in the matter. Statistics reveal the fact that the average boy and girl gets no instruction from his parents in the matter of personal purity. Schools and their curriculum fail to teach anything about sex hygiene. Oklahoma school authorities appear to be afraid to pioneer in this great work, and frankly state this fact. It is no longer a question of permitting false modesty and prudery to control in this great problem, but one wherein the necessity of instruction on the prevalence of vice and social diseases is paramount. This is the work the educational director of the U. S. Public Health Service is endeavoring to get before the public in the right way, to awaken the public conscience to the dangers and evils that confront the youths of our state. Dance halls, joy riding, private booths in restaurants, late hours at the parks and amusement places, brings the problem home to the parents, and shows some of the many causes of immorality. Elimination of vice conditions and prostitution in the more populous centers depends largely upon the effectiveness and co-operation of police departments and the crystallizing of public sentiment against these evils and sources of venereal diseases. The problem is one that should enlist the earnest and heart support of every good citizen, every father and mother in the state of Oklahoma. The work is a great move in behalf of humanity, for the future generations, for the sustaining of the manpower of the nation.

Hats That Await Autumn

The time will soon be here for those exciting and fascinating excursions to the millinery shop in search of new millinery, of which much is expected. The old millinery axiom that a hat is becoming when one looks better with it on than without it, is a good thing to bear in mind. At the very least we expect hats, like mirrors, to "be to our faults a little blind, and to our virtues not unkind." Just how much the right shape and the right colors can do to transform a face, is measured often by the long price which a small bit of millinery commands. It is the intangible in millinery that is worth more than anything else—the color harmony, the beautifully balanced lines, the poise of the hat on the head and its appropriateness, that are worth more than mere material.

No one understands this quite so well as the woman who has reached middle life, or passed it. She expects her hats to do much for her in the way of enhancing her good points, and designers who specialize successfully in headwear for matrons turn fabrics into gold. One of their promising new models is shown at the right of the group of three hats pictured above. It is made of black satin and the top of the crown is soft. Narrow, looped silk fringe, very brilliantly black, makes a wide irregular band about the crown and there is a narrow brim with lines that flow in easy curves about the head.

The hat at the left, for a girl of ten or more, makes a picture on the head that boasts soft curls. Its crown is of felt in sections joined in seams that are outlined with stitches of wool yarn and the rolling brim is also of yarn, apparently crocheted into shape. At the base of each seam in the crown a pair of pert little leaves support a diminutive apple. Almost any little girl will look well in this picturesque hat.

The hat at the bottom of the picture, made for a young woman, is a dressy affair of silver tissue with an odd trim of twining about the crown. The trimming is likely to be made of twisted ribbon with a fancy edge, but might be of silver tissue or georgette. The maker of trimmings is no respecter of fabrics, taking anything that is within reach and fashioning it into something new and strange and nearly always beautiful.

ORIGION OF STARS AND STRIPES TOLD

NUMEROUS BANNERS WERE USED BY COLONISTS BEFORE PRESENT FLAG WAS ADOPTED.

In the course of a plea for a new flag for the British Empire—the Union Jack is but a combination of the flags of England, Ireland and Scotland—Admiral Sir Charles Dundas, according to London dispatches, said "the ideal national flag is the French Tricolor and the Stars and Stripes."

This tribute by an Englishman to the American flag is occasion for issuance by the National Geographic Society of the following bulletin, based on a communication to the society, from Commander Byron McCandless, U. S. N., concerning the origin of the Stars and Stripes:

"In the embryonic days of the Republic, when the thirteen original states were still feeble British colonies bordering the western shores of the Atlantic, there were almost as many varieties of banners borne by the Revolutionary forces as there are today races fused into one liberty-loving American people."

"Disciplined to sever all ties with England, yet bitterly resentful of the treatment accorded them and unyielding in their determination to resist further oppression, when it became necessary to adopt an ensign for their newly created navy, in the autumn of 1775, the revolting colonies chose a flag that reflected their feeling of unity with the Mother Country, but at the same time expressed their firm joint purpose to demand and obtain justice and liberty."

Hoist First American Flag.

"Prior to the receipt of the news of the capture of the British brig Nancy (Nov. 29) by one of General Washington's ships under command of John Manley, the Continental Congress had appointed Esek Hopkins commander in chief of the navy built by congress as distinguished from the soldier-manned fleet under General Washington. Immediately following his appointment Commodore Hopkins (the first and only commander in chief of the navy ever had) set sail from Rhode Island in that colony's armed vessel Katy and arrived in the Delaware river on December 3, 1775. The same day the commodore assumed the formal command of the little squadron which congress had placed under him.

"The manner in which that command was assumed is of marked importance, in that the ceremony marked the hoisting of the first truly American flag. And the distinction of having released the banner to the breeze belongs to that daring spirit, John Paul Jones, one of the chief among heroes in the hearts of the American naval officers and seamen."

"This was the flag which afterwards figured so extensively in the literature of the day as the congress colors from the fact that it first floated over the navy controlled by congress. Also known as the Grand Union flag and the First Navy ensign, it was the colonial standard from that day until it was superseded by the Stars and Stripes, in 1777. It consisted of thirteen stripes, alternately red and white, typifying the thirteen colonies, with a union bearing the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew combined (the national flag of Great Britain) and signifying the Mother Country."

Famous Gadsden Flag.

"The Gadsden flag (of yellow silk and bearing a coiled rattlesnake with the motto, 'Don't Tread On Me'), used on the Alfred as the flag of the commodore commanding the fleet, was presented Feb. 8, 1776, to the South Carolina provincial congress by Col. Christopher Gadsden, a delegate from South Carolina to the Continental body and one of the committee of three appointed on Oct. 15, 1775, to report on the fitting out of two armed vessels. When that report was made, two weeks later, Colonel Gadsden was one of the committee of seven appointed to fit out four armed vessels."

"The Jack displayed on the Alfred on this occasion was a small, nearly square flag of thirteen alternate red and white stripes, bearing the crawling rattlesnake with the legend 'Don't Tread On Me' beneath it."

"Although displayed on the Continental army's first birthday, neither the Grand Union flag nor the Stars and Stripes, adopted by congress a year and a half later, was carried in the field by the land forces during the Revolutionary War. The army carried only the colors of the states to which the troops belonged and not the national flag."

"It was nearly one year after the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, had pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor for the support of the Declaration of Independence that the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew, emblematic of the Mother Country, which had formed the union of the Continental Union Flag, were discarded and replaced by a union composed of white stars in a blue field, 'representing a new constellation.'"

"The date of the birth of the Stars and Stripes was June 14, 1777, and its creation was proclaimed in a resolution of the Continental Congress."

"Thus it would seem that not only was the first flag of the Continental Congress displayed for the first time from a naval vessel, the Alfred, but that from the navy (in the person of the Marine Committee of the Congress of 1777) the nation also received the Stars and Stripes."

A woman's brain reaches its greatest weight about the age of twenty-five, while in the case of a man, this does not occur until ten years later. This explains the assertion that a woman at the age of twenty-one is in a better position to give a matured judgment than a man at the same age.

Two New Blouses for College Girls

In our largest centers of fashion the lovely summer is brief and we are not allowed a chance to forget that it is so. In the heart of it, by the time August arrives, a new array of fall clothing is presented and preparations for fall outfitting well underway; all for the benefit of young women who will be returning to school or college and school children getting back to their desks in September. Not that anyone comes out in wintry apparel, or even a hint of it, but new suits and hats, blouses and skirts are all on display so that when the time comes to wear them styles are established and women know what they want.

Two new aspirants for favor, among models of fall blouses, are shown in the picture. They ought to please the college girl for their style is suited to her, and they are excellent enough to compel the attention of the most sophisticated dresser. A little study of the new blouses reveals neat effects in trimming as an outstanding feature in them. Fine tucks, run in parallel rows, with beautiful precision and evenness, feather stitching and other simple needle work, very accurately placed, are the favorite decorations for them. The blouse at the left of the picture shows the effectiveness of tucks and plaits in a model that is made of georgette crepe. It is a slip-over style, extended eight or ten inches below the waist and confined at the waistline with a narrow sash made of the georgette. The round neck with split at the front is bordered with a band of dark crepe that extends down the shoulders and is marked off into squares by stitchings of silk floss. It fastens at the throat with a single loop and button. There are clusters of tucks above the hem and waistline and about the sleeves and fine side plaits at each side of the front panel.

The blouse at the right, of fine white voile, has a wide plait down the front and wide clusters of narrow tucks at each side. Its collar and cuffs are covered with tucks and edged with a narrow, substantial lace. It fastens at the front under the plait and is not extended below the waistline.

Whatever else may be in store for us in new blouses, we cannot hope for anything more tasteful and elegant than these.

MAKE THE PENNIES BIGGER

When James Buchanan was president and tall beaver hats were in vogue; when gentlemen wore broad cravats and ladies wore hoop skirts the pennies they tossed to children were as big as quarters. But the cart-wheel coppers your grandfather got for keeping his lace collar clean were not as big in buying power as the pennies of today.

A penny then might buy a pastry, or ten of them take one to the Fair, but your great-aunt and great uncle couldn't have gone to a movie at any price.

Your great-grandfather may have driven the fastest horse in the country and paid a tidy sum for it. But the price of a stable of thoroughbreds would not have bought him a flivver.

Sixty years ago the ladies could go shopping for dry goods and buy silks that would make you green with envy, linens that were linens and broadcloths that beggar description. But what their favorite store did not have they usually got along without.

You can pick up your daily newspaper and in fifteen minutes you can know what the different shops are offering in fabrics, patterns, varieties and qualities that great-grandmother never dreamed could be gathered together under any conditions.

Times have changed, and so have merchandise and business methods. One of the influences that has helped to bring about so much of change, that has helped to multiply opportunities and increased the spending size of our pennies is advertising.

Every merchant, every manufacturer knows that advertising materially reduces selling costs by increasing the demand for and the distribution of the products of hundreds of thousands of mills. Indeed many of the things we count today as necessities or simple luxuries could not be made and sold at their reasonable prices except as advertising has created a broad market for them, making millions of sales at little prices and little profits.

And so you owe very much to advertising. You owe much to the people of yesterday who have read and been influenced by past advertising and so have made possible the economies and varieties and wide distribution of merchandise that you enjoy.

You owe present advertising a thorough reading. A greater familiarity with advertising, with advertisers and advertised merchandise makes continually for the increasing size of your pennies.

PREACHING TO EMPTY PEWS.

How can ministers of the gospel content themselves with preaching to empty pews? Pews do not need to be converted—such a question is asked by Dr. Christian F. Reisner, president of the Church Advertising Department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. "I have never seen a church advertise without building up a good attendance," he said today, "and considering that fact in connection with the fact that it does not pay to preach to empty pews, one would wonder that more churches are not employing paid advertising space." In speaking of the church advertising conference which will be held in connection with the world convention of advertising, at New Orleans, Sept. 21 to 25, Dr. Reisner predicted an unusual interest, because he said the original objection to the use of advertising by the church—that it tended to rob the church of its dignity—had fallen, especially since the Government had employed advertising so widely and with such marked success, to help win the war. "The church must sell itself by advertising," said the minister. "It must meet the competition of Sunday golf and automobilism. If we accept the statement made recently to the effect that 50 million people do not go to church we may then consider every other person a possible customer."

DANGERS THAT CONFRONT OKLAHOMANS

One of the outstanding features of the work of the United States Public Health Service in Oklahoma under the direction of Dr. J. C. Mahr is the salutary truths developed that social diseases have become sufficiently prevalent to seriously endanger the future health and development of the state. This condition has arisen largely as a result of the attitude of society toward the underlying causes of the incidence of these diseases, which are prudery, false modesty and ignorance of sex hygiene. Statements have been made and generally accepted as true that "prostitution in the cities is a necessary evil," and that "public discussion or other publicity in regard to sex problems is demoralizing."

Overworked ambition is a curse.

These are the dog days in Russia.

After all, what is success but happiness.

It takes a big man to admit his mistakes.

Discontent breeds trouble—trouble breeds broken noses and black eyes, so watch your step.

Automobile Activities

THEFT OF CARS.

This is the particular season of the year when car stealing is at its height, and owners will do well to observe every precaution. If they would display a small fraction of the ingenuity shown by the crooks there would be very material reduction of the evil. It is practically impossible to prevent stealing entirely, but there is no gainsaying the fact that drivers' and owners' carelessness makes it altogether too easy for even amateurs to successfully engage in car stealing.

Few Are Recovered.

Altogether too few of the cars stolen are recovered. A fairly high per cent is credited to the police of Detroit, who of the 1,547 cars so far stolen this year have recovered 1,149. Figures for some of the larger cities for the last year, giving the number of cars stolen and recovered are as follows: Boston, stolen 866; recovered 607; Chicago, stolen 2,611; recovered 1,954; Cincinnati, stolen 348; recovered 291; Cleveland, stolen 2,076; recovered 1,186; San Francisco, stolen 1,122; recovered 1,082.

Cars should never be left without some locking device or thief alarm set so that any attempt to steal the car will be immediately recognized by the police. Most cities forbid the locking of a car so that it cannot be moved in case of fire or other emergency, so we would not advise chaining and locking a wire wheel to a lamp-post, for instance. One owner who did that had only the wire wheel to show for his pains when he came out.

Experience also shows that it is not sufficient to leave a boy in charge of the car, for the owner's instructions to the boy may be overheard by some one who can pass himself off as the owner if he happens to be the same build and description. Spare tires also should be locked, as some make a specialty of stealing these, and even those in use. Two brand-new cord tires were removed from the rear wheels of a car, leaving it standing on the rims in front of a lighted theater.

Unfortunately all policemen are not wise to the fact that a car bumping along with a spike locked around the tire is an evidence that the car is being stolen, and others are too easily convinced that the owner has lost the key. One policeman even helped a thief saw off such a device, believing him to be the owner.

The foreign demand for cars is being taken advantage of by thieves, who are doing a very nice export business. It is said about 90 per cent of the cars stolen are exported. A fence for stolen cars has been discovered in Cuba, from which port they were exported to other parts of the world. Shippers should be more particular about the antecedents of any used car for export.

F. A. Ford and family went to Hubbard-Grady.

The marriage of Mr. Isaac Hubbard and Miss Maude Grady took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Grady, West Third, Thursday evening, at eight forty-five.

The ring ceremony was used, Rev. B. F. Stegall officiating. Only the immediate members of the family and Mr. F. A. Word were present. The bride wore a sheer frock of white organdie. She is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Grady.

The groom, who has only been discharged from the service one week, wore the army uniform. He has spent eighteen months in service abroad and is very happy indeed, to return to the land of his nativity and claim for his own the sweetheart of his former civilian days.

The parents of both the bride and groom are well known in Ada, they having been among the first settlers of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hubbard will make their home in Ada.

Marriage License.

Yesterday was a good day for marriages. At this rate the marriages would soon catch up with the divorces and the fear of race suicide would be more or less eliminated.

License were issued yesterday to Clyde Williams and Miss Mamie Williams, of Francis.

Also to Isaac Hubbard and Miss Maude Grady of Ada. The marriage ceremony in this case was performed by Rev. B. F. Stegall.

Ollie Ross to Miss Stella Watts, reads the clerk's record on another page. In this case Judge Brown performed the ceremony. The contracting parties live at Konawa.

On Wednesday license were issued to William R. Wilson and Miss Verda Smith, both of whom were from Lawrence. Judge Brown also did the honors in this case.

Heard Boys Coming Home.

Ralph C. Heard, son of N. T. Heard, of this city, arrived home today, having just been discharged from service in the navy.

Mr. Heard's oldest son, Marion, arrived at Norfolk, Va., Aug. 3, and is expected home within a few days. Marion was in the army and saw service in France.

Oklahoma City Thursday and are expected to return today in a Hudson Speedster, which he has purchased for his own use.

W. M. Cooper is in receipt of a letter stating that a car load of Hupmobiles, consisting of four touring cars and one roadster, will be shipped from the factory to him on the 11th, and are expected to arrive here the 15th or 16th. Mr. Cooper is also expecting two Lexington touring cars most any day.

The Ford Agency reports the sale of two Fords, one new model Ford truck, with pneumatic tires, to F. D. Hardin, Roff. One Ford roadster to Dr. Craig, Ada.

W. E. Harvy and one of his mechanics left here Wednesday for Oklahoma City for the purpose of returning with two Ford trucks. They left Oklahoma City Wednesday evening at 6:30, for the overland trip home, making it in the night so as to avoid the extreme torture of Sol's rays. They arrived in Ada Thursday morning at five o'clock.

Mr. Coleman, of the Ada Motor Company, states that it is practically impossible to get Dodge cars, due to the fact that the output is so much shorter than the demand.

The Ada Motor Company reports the sale of two cars this week, which has been all that they were able to get from the factory. Mr. Vickory of Francis purchased a Dodge roadster. Mr. Coleman delivered to the Southern Motor Company at Ardmore one Dodge, two-ton truck, the first part of the week.

W. A. Wray of the Ada Motor Company made a business trip to Oklahoma City Wednesday, returning Thursday.

At the Irwin Garage, Nograd & Morris, of Wichita, Kansas, are demonstrating United States compression puncture proof tubes and also Nograd differentials, which are patents of Mr. Nograd.

Fleet Cooper, of the Fleet Cooper Garage, has just returned from Tulsa where he went regarding the Fordson Tractor agency which his firm has recently taken out. Mr. Cooper is very enthusiastic in regard to the tractor as he has been visiting in parts of the state where they are used in great numbers. Mr. Cooper states that he was unable to find a single user that was not more than satisfied with the results of the tractor, in fact where this tractor has been introduced the distributor was not only out of tractors for sale but had many back orders on file. We bespeak for the Fleet Cooper Garage a great success in handling this tractor, as it is not only a proven success but an every day necessity to an up-to-date farm.

Arthur Smith Bound Over.

Arthur Smith was tried before Judge H. J. Brown yesterday, charged with having stolen the Ford car belonging to Dr. Craig, and was bound over to the district court in the sum of one thousand dollars.

Smith claimed that he purchased the car from some fellow at Tupelo, but he was unable to substantiate his allegation. Being unable to make bond the young man was remanded to jail to await trial in the district court.

Ada Star-Democrat: This world will never be entirely safe for democracy so long as an Indian university graduate has to get down on his knees and beg for a few of his own dollars from a "choce" loaded Caucasian clerk who thinks that a B. S. degree is an epithet.

Oklmulgee Democrat: It is announced from Los Angeles that the destruction of the home of former Deputy United States Attorney Lawler was the result of an honest mistake. The bombs were intended for one of Mr. Lawler's neighbors, who had become offensive to the bomb squad. No doubt the apology will be duly accepted and the incident closed.

Ada Star-Democrat: President Wilson asks that railroad rates be increased in order to increase the salaries of railroad men. That would be a very fine thing—for the railroad men. It would increase the cost of living for every citizen of Pontotoc county and increase the wages of just a few dozen citizens of Pontotoc county. It would increase the price of everything shipped into the county and reduce the price to the producer of everything shipped out of the county. The problem of the high cost of living can never be solved by taxing millions of people to raise the pay of thousands of people.

Ada Star-Democrat: Opponents of the League of Nations now declare that the league would be a failure because human nature cannot be changed. That was the same argument employed for fifty years by the men who fought prohibition. They declared human law can never change human nature and that prohibition would fail for that reason. But if human nature can not be changed, why are men no longer drinking wine from the skulls of slain victims or eating human beings raw? Why are witches no longer burned at the stake on Boston Commons? If human nature cannot be changed why did Christ die on Calvary and why is Evangelist Ham holding a six weeks' revival in Ada? Whenever it is settled that human nature cannot be changed, the last star of hope has faded in the heavens.

MIAMI TEACHERS SEE FOR THEIR BACK PAY

Strike Not Hampering Traffic In State to Any Considerable Degree

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—Despite labor trouble which some railroads are experiencing here, freight service to and from Oklahoma City is being maintained at a normal schedule over all roads, with the possible exception of the Frisco.

The restrictions which the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railway imposed on freight shipments Wednesday were rescinded yesterday, when the shippers who had been out at El Reno returned to work. This leaves only the St. Louis and San Francisco railway operating out of Oklahoma City under a freight embargo. Shipments of foodstuffs and all perishables in addition to carload lots of livestock are being carried over this road on a fast service schedule.

Little Delay in Service.

Shippers and dealers in Oklahoma City can send and receive goods from virtually all main points east, west, north and south, at the present time with almost no unusual delays in service, unless the shipments are carried for an extended distance which would involve their transfer among several different roads.

Some roads are accepting freight for shipment with the only restricting condition that it be subject to delay. This condition is imposed only in anticipation of further labor trouble, but according to railway officials, the rail system here are carrying freight on regular schedule time.

Only Precautionary Measure.

"We are operating a normal freight service," P. T. Jackson, chief clerk of the freight department of the Rock Island lines, said yesterday, however, we do not know how long we can continue to do so, and are accepting everything subject to delay."

When asked concerning the reported embargo on this division of the Rock Island, he said the orders issued Wednesday concerning the reported embargo on this division of the Rock Island, acceptance of certain classes of freight could not be construed as an embargo, but rather, was a precautionary measure.

BOB BREEDLOVE, AN OLD PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

Bob Breedlove, an old pioneer and cattleman of Oklahoma, died suddenly of heart failure, on the streets of Tupelo, Thursday night about 8 o'clock. Mr. Breedlove was a prominent banker and merchant of Tupelo, he having been one of the first settlers and promoters of that part of the country. He has resided, for a number of years, with his family, one mile west of Tupelo, on his ranch.

He leaves a wife and five boys and one adopted daughter — Eli Breedlove, a banker in Tupelo; Ego Breedlove, a merchant in Tupelo; Cleo Breedlove, who is with the First National bank at Coalgate, and Thurman and Eula Breedlove, who are the youngest of the boys, who are still at home. Miss Althea, who was adopted from a Masonic home by Mr. and Mrs. Breedlove when she was just a child, is now a grown young lady.

Mr. Breedlove is well known in various towns all over the state of Oklahoma and it will be with regret that his many friends hear of his passing away. He was an honest, reliable citizen, and well respected by everyone who knew him. He was very active in Masonic circles, having been one of the first Shriners of the Indian Territory.

Mr. Breedlove will be buried with Masonic honors. The time of the burial was set for this afternoon, but for some unknown reason, it has been postponed indefinitely.

ure which the officials now considered no longer necessary.

The Santa Fe has been accepting all freight as has the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway, the only restriction being "subject to delay."

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Stuart returned yesterday from an overland trip to Lindsay and Pauls Valley. Mr. Stuart states that the broom corn crop in that vicinity is exceptionally good, and that the farmers are actively engaged in harvesting this crop. He also states that other crops are equally as good, and that a good rain fell at Lindsay several days ago.

Capper Declares Kenyon Bill Won't Hurt Farmer

United States Senator from Kansas Says Clique of Men Who Desire to Further Monopoly Are Scattering Propaganda to Scare Public.

By The Hon. Arthur Capper
(U. S. Senator from Kansas.)

Since I have come to Washington my conviction has grown that one of the things that must be done is to bring the packing industry under direct supervision of the government.

The big battle of congress will be over Kenyon's bill to curb the big five packing monopoly. Unless the present tendencies are stopped it is only a matter of time until the big packers will dictate what we shall eat and what we shall pay for it.

Big business will make a desperate effort to defeat this legislation. I am already receiving appeals from bankers, attorneys and others who are directly interested in perpetuating the monopoly. They are doing their best to create a scare by claiming the live stock industry will be seriously crippled if the government regulates packers.

They assert the welfare of the farmer and cattle raiser depends almost wholly upon the prosperity of the big packers, and that Kenyon's bill will put the packers out of business.

In my judgment there is no basis for any of these claims. If the producer is to prosper he must have a fair and open market. The purpose of Kenyon's bill is to compel the packers to play the game in the open. There is nothing in the bill that any fair-minded business man can object to.

The packers, dictating prices to both producer and consumer, have extended their domination not only over meat, but over the principal meat substitutes, and have gone in for groceries, canned goods and other things.

This ruthless invasion of unrelated fields is excused on grounds of efficiency. But this is not true, or the efficiency would be reflected in lower instead of increasing prices. The Kenyon bill is aimed at checking this Hun-like efficiency.

Efforts of the packers to defeat or render ineffective the Kenyon bill have already been felt in the attacks upon the federal trade commission. As the fight gets hotter their antagonism will become open. Champions of legislation to curb the packers will need public support in the shape of petitions, letters and resolutions.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM M. L. CHAMBERS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 5, 1919.
Hon. Marvin Brown, Ada, Okla.
Dear Mr. Brown:

"I wonder if some of your readers would be interested in a trip I made last week from the Double A town of Oklahoma to the Triple A city of Georgia?"

I left Ada on last Wednesday by way of the Frisco. The first thing I took notice of after leaving there was the city of Kiefer, Okla. That town has more oil wells than any other place I ever saw. It looked as if there were a thousand derricks in view of the railroad. I never before saw anything like it.

The next thing that interested me was the main line Frisco train which I boarded at Sapulpa. It was such an improvement over what we must put up with at Ada that it made me long to see the time when our town will be served with trains that have modern conveniences.

After passing through Tulsa we came to the real farming section of Oklahoma. There were hardly any more oil derricks to be seen, but the foliage was as green as springtime and the corn was in excellent condition. Very little cotton is raised in Northeastern Oklahoma, but they raise enough corn and other grain to make up for the cotton. We passed through the greater part of Missouri in the night, but the crops in that state seemed to be about like those in Northeastern Oklahoma.

The first thing that struck me as significant after we entered Missouri was a negro man who came into the coach and sat down by a white woman. Not being accustomed to such sights I yelled out, "Do they let niggers ride with white people in Missouri?" Another Oklahoman spoke up and said we ought to apply a little Chicago to him, and another said didn't know about Missouri, but he knew what would happen if a negro tried a thing like that in Oklahoma. Then a Texan had an inning and said he couldn't say what would happen in a case of that kind in Texas, because in Texas no negro would try anything like that. The negro had been listening to our remarks and didn't seem to relish them very much. So he raised up in his seat, balled his eyes in our direction, picked up his suitcase and Literary Digest and walked out. I spoke up in my customary manner and said, "I thank you."

INTERNATIONAL ROOSTERS, REPRESENTING "BIG FOUR," PRESENTED TO STATE OF ALABAMA BY PRESIDENT WILSON

President Wilson presenting the international roosters, representing the "Big Four," to the State of Alabama. The roosters, which have been re-named "Wilson," "Lloyd George," "Foch" and "Clemenceau," were presented to the state by the men after whom they are named. The birds are slated for a tour of the southern cities, the purpose of which is to raise a fund of $200,000 for the construction of a span across Tombigbee river below Demopolis, on the Dixie Highway. They will finally be auctioned in Birmingham, Ala., on August 14. The photograph shows the president enjoying a hearty laugh as he presents the crowing roosters to Senator Bankhead, of Alabama. Secretary of War Baker can be seen on the left inspecting one of the birds.

I had never been to St. Louis before, so I stopped over there for a day. I suppose it was a busy place. At least it looked so to me. There are said to be 900,000 people in St. Louis. I was acquainted with only one of them, Roland D. Teichman, who was one of the officers in charge of the S. A. T. C. in Ada last fall. I had no idea where he lived, but was walking up the main street of the burg, and met him face to face. I had lunch with him and he made me enjoy the stop over in that city very much. Mr. Teichman is connected with a large brokerage firm in St. Louis and has a most promising future. He asks that his regards be extended to his many friends in Ada.

I left St. Louis Friday morning, in a downpour of rain. Traveled that day through the states of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and to Nashville, Tenn. There is no cotton raised in this territory, but there is lots of grain. The corn is best in the Ohio river bottom in the state of Indiana. Much tobacco is seen in Kentucky. It rained all the way to Nashville Friday. We were delayed four hours near Hopkinsville, Ky., because of a wreck. Our train had an express car loaded with horses being shipped from Illinois to Georgia. The car had a door opening at the front end. One of the horses became untied and walked to his death beneath the train. The car was thrown from the track, but no serious damage was done.

Saturday I completed the trip to Georgia, leaving Nashville at noon. We passed through a beautiful country between Chattanooga and Nashville. The greatest crop there is corn, but quite a bit of cotton is seen. The crops are fine, and the corn is as green as in the springtime. Coming from Nashville to Chattanooga we passed through Tennessee into Alabama, then back into Tennessee, into Georgia and again into Tennessee.

The trip was uneventful from Chattanooga to Atlanta. In Georgia there was also much pretty scenery and excellent crops. The only trouble with the cotton crop in this state is the boll weevil. This pest has completely ruined the crop in many places, therefore the crop in this state will be very small. It has rained almost every day in Atlanta during the past two months. All rivers and creeks east of the Mississippi are greatly swollen.

Atlanta is a progressive city of 300,000. Naturally it is interesting to me since it is the city in which I was raised. I am going to visit our friend Gene Debs at the Atlanta penitentiary tomorrow. Will tell you what he says when I get back to Ada.

Reenactment of Food Control Law Will Be Advised by President

By News' Special Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A virtual re-enactment of the Lever food control law, with its scope greatly broadened, is among the recommendations, it is understood today, that President Wilson will make to congress when he addresses a joint session tomorrow afternoon on the high cost of living.

The Lever law is the weapon with which the department of justice today was waging its war on food profiteers and hoarders. It is a war measure, however, and in the opinion of Attorney General Palmer automatically will cease to be operative with the ratification of the peace treaty by the senate.

The attorney general has made it plain "that the big fellow" can be reached by this act, and as chairman of the special committee of the cabinet charged with investigating the high cost of living, he submitted to President Wilson the recommendations of that body. And the fact that he has absorbed the whole machinery of his department for procedure under the Lever act, strengthened the belief that continuance of the measure as emergency peace time legislation was to be one of the president's requests of congress.

Meanwhile the president was putting the finishing touches on his message today. Substantially it has been completed, but even those in his confidence have not been informed of its contents. Extreme precautions were being taken to prevent a possible "leak" and it was said at the White House that the usual custom of giving the document to the press a few hours in advance of its delivery in order to expedite its dissemination would not be followed tomorrow.

Cruelty in Training Birds.
Performing birds are often taught by starvation. How many are aware that the pretty doves that fly when released to the bespangled artists, and form themselves into geometrical patterns on her head and outstretched arms, are often the survivors of hundreds which have been starved and then only fed when they perched upon an exact spot on the owner's arms.

The Truly Wise.

FRANK LYON POLK

Frank Lyon Polk, counselor of the state department and acting secretary of state, has been nominated by President Wilson as under secretary of state, a new office created under the 1919 legislative and judicial appropriation bill. The salary of the new under secretary is $7,500. The office created is expected to simplify the transaction of business with Great Britain and France, whose cabinet officers are assisted by under secretaries rather than by counselors.

Gipsy Language.

The language of the Gipsies, Romanies, is said to be Hindoo dialect derived from Sanskrit. Ethnologists pretty well agree that the Gipsies are descendants of an obscure Hindoo tribe. The popular belief that Gipsies are descendants of the Egyptians has no other basis than the similarity of the two words. The word "Gipsy" as a matter of fact, is from the Bohemian, and means "vagrabond." The first Gipsies appeared in England early in the sixteenth century, but were found in eastern Europe at least two centuries earlier. They are now scattered all over the world.

Why Hair Stands on End.

When hair stands on end on the back of a dog or cat when frightened it is moved by tiny muscles attached to the roots. The hair follicle is like a little seed buried in the flesh. Attached to either side of this seed are tiny muscles which run diagonally through the flesh from the lower part of the follicle. These little muscles are like the guy ropes of a tent. They are what are called the erector muscles, and when fear or cold is experienced these muscles promptly tighten up in such a manner as to "hoist" the hair very quickly.

Viewed solely as a matter of optics, the Arctic night is as dark as any night. Explorers in high latitudes say, however, that there are many alleviations of the obscurity. The stars flash keenly, the moon comes along in a regular succession of phases, the snow surface reflects the gloom under conditions of the utmost absence of light, and the aurora borealis is the finest kind of illuminant. Explorers all agree that their men pass the winter night without much difficulty if only there are means of amusement.

World's Highest Peaks.
The highest mountain peak in North America is Mt. McKinley, in Alaska, whose altitude is 20,300 feet, and the highest in South America, Mt. Aconcagua, in the Andes, on the border of Chile and Argentina, 23,080 feet. The highest mountain in the world is Mt. Everest, in the Himalayas, in Asia. Its altitude is 29,002 feet. There are several hundred mountain peaks in the Himalayas 20,000 feet or over, running to an altitude of 28,278 feet.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FATHER WEEK'S STORY.

"It's all very well," said Father Week, for daddies to tell stories to their children, all very well, and all very nice. I can see how the children would get used to them and would enjoy having them, and wouldn't want to miss a nightly story for anything. "But I am not going to let my children go without stories either." "What do you mean?" asked Effie Elf, who was listening to Father Week as he talked. "Have you never seen my children?" asked Father Week. "Never," said Effie Elf. "It is the first time I ever saw you, you know." "Now, is it, indeed?" asked Father Week. "Yet I have been around a good long time." "Sometimes," said Effie Elf, "I think we miss things that are around all the time. We don't notice them enough or think enough of them because they are usual."

"But I don't see how I could have missed you." "Well, I'm a busy old soul, always looking after the children, seeing they aren't late, but always right on time. One thing I do insist upon, and that is that my children are on time. They are never, never late, except sometimes in a make-believe way when they change one of their hours around."

"I'm getting so mixed up," said Effie Elf. "What do you mean?" "I mean that sometimes they put ahead an hour, or back an hour so that people think that it's Wednesday when still it is Tuesday. But of course that makes very little real difference, and if folks are happier with daylight or whatever it is they want, I don't mind, and if they're happier without it I don't mind either."

"Do call your children and tell them a story?" asked Effie Elf. "Ah," said Father Week, "I tell my children their stories as other daddies tell their children stories. But always one child is busy, and can't be listening. That is the child who is working that day."

"Call what children you can," said Effie Elf, "for still I am mixed up. And I would like to have it all explained to me." "Come, children," called Father Week. "Come Monday and Tuesday. Come Wednesday and Thursday. Come Saturday and Sunday." They all came hurrying along, looking very much alike, the six children. "You see," explained Father Week, "Friday is busy. It's Friday's turn now."

"Well, my children, my lovely days, how are you all?" "We're well, father, we're happy. We're looking forward to a story." "I will tell a story of our family and its history," said Father Week, "for

A Great Service Was That of Last Evening by Ham

Those who heard the sermon of Evangelist Ham, at the tabernacle last evening, pronounce it one of the best he has yet delivered at the evening hour.

The subject was, "The Man Who Turned Yellow." and the discourse was based on the faith of the early Christian martyrs. The church of Rome came in for a good healthy drubbing, and as the evangelist related the harrowing stories of the persecutions of the early witnesses of the church of Christ one could almost see the flames at the stake and hear the creaking of the rack as these disciples of the devil wreaked their vengeance and superstitious fury upon the faithful followers of the true Christ.

The burden of the evangelist's discourse was to show that timidity and cowardice were not distinguishing marks of a Christian, and when compared to the martyrs of the early days, the speaker said, the professed Christians of today would show up as the yellowest of the yellow.

The evangelist was perceptibly mortified at the attitude of the business men of the city in not co-operating with the revival. Mr. Ramsay, in his opening remarks before the service began, stated that the business men of the city were not supporting the meeting. He also stated that no man would gain a single dollar by refusing to close his place of business and support the meeting as he should do, and as the business men have done in other localities where they have worked and held meetings. "I would stake my life on God prospering any business man who would close his place of business for these morning services," said Mr. Ramsay, in a tone that no one could fail to hear.

Notwithstanding the fact that the business element have not supported the meeting financially nor otherwise, and notwithstanding the further fact that some of the denominations have "cut" the revival cold, there has been, to date, over a thousand conversions and reclamations.

Many public confessions of faith were made last evening, and after the main service was over and the audience dismissed, many of the faithful remained for an after service of prayer and devotion.

MEETING OPENED ON WEST MAIN LAST EVENING

The meeting on East Main is in progress with a very good attendance for the first service. Bro. Phillips discussed last night four kinds of faith, namely: The coward's faith, vain faith, dead faith and the faith that works by love.

No subject was announced for the service tonight, but it will be made profitable for you if you will come.

Services are being held in the grove at the rear of the church building so you will be comfortable. On the cards in windows it is stated that services begin at 8:15, but the time has been changed to 8:45 sharp. Everybody come and come promptly. You should consider your soul's salvation the most vital thing to consider in this life.

Take Care. of that picture by having C. A. Cummins to frame it for you. 1-15-19

terest in you, but he can't use you. We had an old mule when I was a boy on the farm and he could pull anything that was not grown to the earth. We broke every young mule with him. Oh, how God needs folks he can count on here in Ada. Some of you trust him until the hamestrapping breaks. How many of you can God actually count on seven days in the week and fifty-two in the year? The trouble with some of you is that the Lord owns you and the devil uses you. Those who stand for the right only so long as it is expedient and will not come out and out for God, are poor reliance in a pinch. God needs you, Bud—the whole cheese. You will be very little service to God until your life is wholly dedicated to God for the service of humanity. Even an ignorant man who is full of the Spirit of God becomes a way station on the road to heaven. Can you trust God with the key to every chamber of your heart? Only such men as turn over every key can perform the wonders of the redeemed. Are you holding back one little key?"

At the close of the sermon several came forward and renounced the dance, gave up tobacco, pledged to devote more time to praying, etc., and some decided to accept Jesus Christ for a companion for the remainder of the journey of life. Members of several business houses told the audience that their business had increased since the revival began and that they had closed four days a week since the very first. The pastors appointed a committee from each church to call on the business houses to close four days next week.

RAILWAY STRIKERS MUST GO TO WORK

PRESIDENT SAYS MEN HAVE REPUDIATED AUTHORITY OF LEADERS AND MUST RESUME WORK.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson tonight notified Director General Hines that he was authorized to take up the demands of railroad shop employees for higher wages and decide them on their merits.

The president said that the letter sent him by Senator Cummins, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, had "set me free to deal as I think best with the difficult question of the wages of certain classes of the railroad employees," but added:

"The chief obstacle to a decision has been created by the men themselves. They have gone out on a strike and repudiated the authority of their officers at the very moment when they were urging action in regard to their interests."

The president's decision was announced tonight from the White House in the form of a letter sent by him to Mr. Hines. The president said that "until the employees return to work and again recognize the authority of their organization, the whole matter must be at a standstill."

NEVER FELT BETTER IN HIS LIFE, HE SAYS

McLeod Was Down in Bed When He Began Taking Tanlac—Has Improved So Much He is Back at Work.

"I have actually gained fifteen pounds on Tanlac and never felt better in my life than I do now," said Roderick McLeod, whose address is R. F. D. No. 1, Memphis, Tenn.

"When I started taking Tanlac," he continued, "I was down in bed in a miserable condition, brought on by long hours and overwork. I had no appetite, was feverish, felt lifeless and exhausted all the time. I seemed to be in for a bad spell of sickness, as I could get no relief from the medicines prescribed for me and I was getting very uneasy about my condition."

"I hadn't eaten anything in several days, but when I began taking Tanlac my appetite soon started up and I began to eat and get back my strength. Before I had finished my third bottle I was up and at work feeling all right, and I am now in better shape than I have been in a good long while."

"There has never been a faithful disciple of Christ who was honored by this world."

"There has been less conviction of sin, less spirit, and less interest manifested in this meeting here in Ada than in any meeting I have held since God called me to the ministry."

"The gospel I have preached in Ada is the same gospel I have preached everywhere, but it has met with the poorest reception of any place I have ever been, even down on the border of old Mexico."

"Jesus could come to Ada and take away his own and you couldn't miss the number from your population."

"Protestants have followed Rome into a postacy until they no longer protest."

"Some of you hypocrites say it's too hot to go down to that tabernacle. I'll tell you one thing, it's not near as hot here as it is at the place where you are going when you die."

The evangelist cited the fact that a young man was convicted in Judge Brown's court yesterday for stealing an automobile. It developed in the trial that the young man went to church at the tabernacle the night he stole the machine, but got up and left the service before it was over. When asked by the judge why he did so, he stated that the preacher said some things that he didn't like. What a travesty!

"The business men of this town are not making a dollar by cheating God out of the time that belongs to him."

"If I were to repeat everything that has been told me since I have been in Ada, there would be a riot here."

NEW YORK ACTORS GO ON STRIKE VERY SUDDENLY

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Understudies who hardly hoped to appear to first night performances, or even in a new play during the summer debut, became objects of much attention by theatre managers today. In several theatres, darkened last night by actors strike, understars will appear with hastily arranged casts. The strike is confined to the legitimate stage in this city alone. Performances were stopped in twelve theaters last night.
